Dr. Marcus E. Kehrli Receives ADSA Fellow Award

Champaign, IL – The American Dairy Science Association is proud to announce Dr. Marcus E. Kehrli as the 2009 recipient of the ADSA Fellow award. The award was presented on Tuesday, July 14, 2009, during the awards ceremony at the ADSA Annual Meeting in Montreal, QC, Canada.

The purpose of the ADSA Fellow Award is to recognize Dairy Foods Division and Production Division members of the American Dairy Science Association who have rendered distinguished service to the dairy industry over 20 years or more. The winner must have made exceptional contributions to the dairy industry, to a dairy related discipline, or the American Dairy Science Association; in addition, the winner must be and have been a member of the American Dairy Science Association for a minimum of twenty years.

Marcus Kehrli is currently research leader of the Virus and Prion Diseases of Livestock Research Unit at the USDA National Animal Disease Center, Ames, Iowa. His research accomplishments have established him as a recognized international authority on bovine leukocyte adhesion deficiency, as well as on bovine immunology and mastitis. Kehrli has authored or coauthored over 130 publications. He has received the West Agro Inc. Award and the Pharmacia and Upjohn Physiology Award of ADSA.

It is with great pleasure that ADSA presents Dr. Marcus E. Kehrli with the 2009 ADSA Fellow award.
