JDS Club 100

Champaign, IL—The American Dairy Science Association® (ADSA®) is pleased to announce the members of the 2019 class of JDS Club 100. All members of this group of JDS Club 100 honorees will be recognized during the awards ceremony at the 2019 ADSA Annual Meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio, on Sunday evening, June 23, at the Duke Energy Convention Center. JDS Club 100 was begun in 2017 to celebrate the 100th volume of the Journal of Dairy Science® and to recognize individuals who have authored or coauthored 100 or more papers in the journal. New members will be inducted into JDS Club 100 each year as they reach this significant milestone.

The Journal of Dairy Science has become the leading dairy research journal worldwide. The journal’s reputation is a direct result of the hard work of our authors and all they have shared with the scientific community.
